

Dear President Biden,

As we mark one year of your administration, the undersigned 108 immigrants' rights, civil rights and civil liberties, and community-based organizations committed to protecting the rights of Muslim, African, Arab, Iranian, Middle Eastern and South Asian communities write to urge you to provide relief to those who have been impacted by Trump's Muslim and African Bans that you rescinded one year ago. It was a historic victory by and for the communities that we serve that you made rescinding the bans - and acknowledging their countless harms and that they serve as a "stain on our national conscience" - a day one priority for your administration. We remain grateful to you for fulfilling this campaign promise. Without further action to provide relief beyond rescinding the bans, however, our communities continue to remain impacted by the bans.

It has been over five long years since the Trump administration issued its first discriminatory Muslim Ban in January 2017. Multiple iterations followed, including an expansion in January 2020, targeting primarily African countries. At the end of the Trump administration, the Muslim and African Bans barred certain nationals from Burma (Myanmar), Eritrea, Iran, Kyrgyzstan, Libya, Nigeria, Somalia, Sudan, Syria, Tanzania and Yemen from entering the United States. Thousands of families have been separated for years, including those who had long awaited visa interviews to join their families in the United States, and individuals seeking job opportunities and urgent medical care had to put their lives and well-being on hold. Over 41,000 visa applicants from the banned countries were denied as a result of the Muslim and African Bans. In addition, people who won their diversity visa-- which predominantly helps people from Africa and Asia to come to the U.S.--were denied this once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for themselves and their families.

Directly impacted communities played a central role in fighting these discriminatory bans and courageously shared their experiences of family separation and the stigma of being marked as unwanted in this country to ensure that these bans would eventually be rescinded. It was a moment of triumph and relief to see the bans rescinded. This relief however, has been short-lived, as most of the families and individuals impacted by the ban remain separated. As we have just marked the first anniversary of the rescission of the Muslim and African Bans, we urge you to take immediate steps to provide meaningful relief to those harmed by the bans. While we cannot quantify the harm to the countless number of people who were deterred from ever applying for visas while the bans were in place, it is crucial that this administration fulfill its promise to right the wrongs of the Trump administration by providing relief to those who applied for but either never received or were denied visas that they would have qualified for but for these bans. To those ends, we ask your administration to:

Provide Clarity for Communities:

- State Department issue clear guidance regarding next steps for applicants denied under the Muslim and African Bans, including publicly releasing the report to the White House that was ordered in President Biden's instructions in his January 20, 2021 proclamation requiring the Secretary of State to "provide to the President a report" and any related guidance, policy memos, or implementing instructions.

Redress Harm for those Denied Before January 20, 2020:

- Immediately and automatically reconsider, reopen, and expedite all immigrant and non-immigrant visa applications subject to the Muslim and African Bans that have not yet been granted, including those denied during FY 17 - FY 20.
- Provide all applicants of this reconsideration and review an opportunity to supplement their applications, if necessary, for a complete review, and of the final outcome of the review.
- Do not require new applications or fees for non-immigrant visas, treating these applications as not constituting final denials as of January 20, 2020. This is consistent with the position taken by the prior administration in litigation, and would ensure that these prior applications are not treated as denials or as being subject to any prejudicial effect for any future applications.
- In addition to waiving application fees, reimburse travel expenses for those rejected under PP 9645.

Diversity Visas:

- Grant humanitarian parole to those who won the diversity visa lottery from FY 17 through FY 22, but whose visas were not issued as a result of the bans or related State Department guidance. Many people received notice that they won the diversity visa lottery and went through a financially, emotionally and physically arduous application process, only to be denied because of the Muslim and African Bans with no recourse after the repeals. For these individuals and their families, they may never have another opportunity to come to the United States again. Humanitarian parole will give Congress more time to authorize green cards for the impacted people.
- Request that Congress authorize green cards for this population, as included in the Build Back Better package that passed the House.

Restoration of Consular Services:

- Issue State Department guidance to all consular staff that makes clear that core elements of the State Department's mission is to unify families, provide safety to those in harm's way, and to serve a welcoming role to all people, regardless of their nationality;
- Any guidance should also instruct consular staff to exercise their discretionary authority and decision-making in ways that are consistent with these overarching goals;

- Ensure that consular services are restored for visa applicants from banned countries. Iranian students, in particular, have very few opportunities to secure appointments and their visas, leading many to defer enrollment or miss out entirely on their admission to U.S. colleges and universities.
- Set a goal to restore the issuance of visas to targeted communities to prior levels.

Address Harmful Policies that may lay the Groundwork for Future Bans:

- Waive discriminatory Visa Waiver Program restrictions (H.R. 158) on dual nationals that paved the way for the Muslim ban and were disingenuously used by the last administration to deflect criticism.
- Eliminate the policy of rejecting Iranian nationals as automatically inadmissible based on their compulsory military service.
- End “Extreme Vetting” policies and ensure they cannot be made mandatory for specific nationals.

One year on from the rescission of the bans, we strongly urge you to take the steps outlined above to provide long overdue relief to the thousands who remain harmed by them.

Sincerely,
 No Muslim Ban Ever Campaign
